Campaign: 131 Lives Remembered – Justice Now!

What Are We Fighting for?

During the protests for electoral justice in Mozambique, 131 lives were brutally cut short by police violence. This campaign aims to:

- Give a voice to the victims, humanizing their stories.
- Honor their memories, ensuring they are never forgotten.
- Demand justice and accountability to prevent such tragedies from happening again.

What Do We Want?

1. Reform the system to end police brutality.
2. Ensure full respect for human rights.
3. Mobilize society to become an ally in the fight for justice and dignity.

How to Get Involved?

- Share the victims' stories: Amplify their voices.
Demand concrete change: Pressure authorities to reform the system.
Join events and dialogues: Add your voice and actions to this fight for justice.

These Lives Will Not Be Forgotten

The 131 lives lost represent more than numbers. They stand for devastated families, interrupted dreams, and a country crying out for justice. We cannot let silence become an accomplice.
